FALL FROM CHAIR PROVES FATAL FOR WOMAN AT HOLMEN

Mrs. Karen Libakken Dies Three Hours After Tumbling from Invalid Chair

WIDELY KNOWN IN COUNTRY SURROUNDING THE VILLAGE

An Invalid for Twenty Years, She Has Many Friends

A particularly sad fatal accident occurred in Holmen, at five o'clock Friday afternoon when Mrs. Karen Libakken, aged 68 years, fell from her invalid chair off the front porch at her home, the chair falling on top of her. No one knows how the accident happened as she was alone at the time. Though no bones were broken, Mrs. Libakken sustained severe injuries from which she died three hours later. It is not thought that she had a stroke, as she was conscious to the last.

Mrs. Libakken was a pioneer in that community, having lived there practically all her life. She was badly crippled from rheumatism, and has been unable to help herself for nearly twenty years. She has made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Ida Ertz, who has untiringly cared for her during her many years of helplessness. Mrs. Libakken was widely known for her beautiful crocheting which she continued till the last, and through her generosity, nearly all of her friends possess some of her hand work. Her hands were very badly crippled, and crocheting was her only means of passing the hours during these many years.

Mrs. Libakken was born in Dane County in 1850. She was the widow of Iver Libakken who died occurred in 1908. She is survived by seven children, as follows: Mrs. Ida Ertz and Marjory Libakken, of Holmen; Adolph of Piquette Falls, Georgia; Oscar, and Mrs. Elmer Evenson, of Whitehall; and Mrs. Conrad Wall, of Onalaska. She is a sister of supervisor John Skogen and Anton Skogen, of Onalaska. Other relatives are Ben Skogen and Theodore Skogen, Holmen brothers; Mrs. Iver Johnson, Piquette Falls; Mrs. Ole Torsen, Whitehall; and Mrs. Andrew Carneross, St. Paul, sisters.

The funeral will probably be held on Tuesday afternoon from the Lutheran church in Holmen.

HARDING PROMISES ERA OF BUSINESS STABILITY IN U. S.

Candidate Tells Travelling Men that Nation Needs Business-Like Government

TOO MANY PEOPLE ON THE PAYROLL DECLARES SENATOR

Advocates Change from One-Man Policy of the Present

MARION, Ohio, Sept. 25.—An era of business stability and of business like government was promised by Senator Harding today in a front porch speech to several thousand commercial travellers who came from all parts of the country under the auspices of the Harding and Coolidge Travelling-men's league.

The business methods of the democratic administration were denounced by the republican nominee as "meddling and autocratic" to a degree threatening industrial chaos. He outlined a policy of common counsel in contrast to "one man judgment," and pledged himself to an "idealism based on such sense that it does not treat the nation's business with suspicion and contempt."

"I believe that everywhere," said Senator Harding, "there is the opinion that we have had enough of government excessively centralized in executive powers; enough of autocratic government unwilling to heed counsel, and advice; enough of government which ignores the representative branch and its close contact with the popular will. I want it understood that my election means complete change from the one-man policy which has characterized our national government the past few years."

Payroll Too Bulky

"I believe the people need not be told that they pay the bills of administrative government whose distention for war still remains over-distended for peace. It has become common knowledge that there are between seven hundred and eight hundred thousand persons on the payroll of the United States who will be kept there unless we have a new government. The people know only an intelligent opposition prevented the present administration from making an expenditure of over eleven billion dollars in a peace year."

Headed Toward Chaos

"In good sense and in good conscience, it has been necessary for all of us to recognize that we have been dragged toward chaos. A nation which prides itself upon its business sense has been forced to see its government twisted into a monstrosity of waste and slipshodness."

"From that unfortunate picture we must turn away. We have great tasks before us and my first principle of performance in any task is to summon the best counsel that can be drawn from any activity or any quarter of America."

"I look forward to a government which will have the sense to keep out of activities which good, old American genius and initiative can do better. I want to see the American government a friend and a partner of American business."

Cox Not Unfriendly

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—George White, chairman of the democratic national committee, declared today the pilgrimage of a delegation of republican traveling salesmen to Senator Harding's front porch at Marion, O., was a pertinent statement disapproving what Mr. White asserted was an attempt by the republican national committee to represent the democratic presidential nominee as unfriendly to commercial travelers.

Mr. White therefore issued a statement in which he said that six years ago Gov. Cox had made known his belief that traveling salesmen had helped the present development of America's commercial markets.

"The immediate occasion for this estimate of the part traveling salesmen have played in our supremacy in world trade was Governor Cox's disavowal of an editorial derogatory to traveling salesmen published in the Darton News in August 1914, without Governor Cox's knowledge," said Mr. White.

"The editorial was full of exaggeration and entirely out of line with the proved sympathies of Governor Cox, who promptly telegraphed the managing editor of the News demanding immediate retraction of the editorial over the signature of the writer of it. This was done."

"Although the editorial writer severed his relations with the Darton News immediately after his public apology, the republican national committee has reprinted the offending editorial in an effort to misrepresent Gov. Cox's attitude toward the traveling salesmen of the country."

Mr. White added that this was "but another example of the propaganda of misrepresentation carried on by the republican national committee."

CONGRESSIONAL MEDAL MEN GUESTS OF AMERICAN LEGION AT CLEVELAND MEET

In 1918 a law was passed authorizing the president to present a medal (shown above), in the name of congress, to a soldier who "shall in action, involving actual conflict with an enemy, distinguish himself conspicuously by gallantry and intrepidity, at the risk of his life above and beyond the call of duty."

Two of the seventy-eight Americans, who were awarded this Congressional Medal of Honor for gallantry during the World war were Sergeant G. Gumpertz and Sergeant Benjamin Kaufman.

Sergeant Sydney G. Gumpertz (left), Company "E", 132nd Infantry, was with the American troops at Bois de Forges, France, Sept. 26, 1918. When the advance line was held up by machine gun fire, Gumpertz, left the platoon, of which he was in command, and started with two other soldiers through a heavy barage toward the machine gun nest. His companions were injured by bursting shells. Gumpertz went on alone and jumped into the nest, silenced the gun and captured nine of the crew of Germans.

Sergeant Benjamin Kaufman (right), Company "K", 308th Infantry, took out a patrol to attack an enemy machine gun which had checked the advance of his company in the Forest of Argonne, France, October 4, 1918. He became separated from his patrol and a machine gun bullet shattered his right arm. Throwing grenades with his left hand, he charged the enemy with an empty pistol, scattering the crew and bringing the machine gun and one prisoner to the American lines.

CHARGE COX WITH RECEIVING SECRET CAMPAIGN FUNDS

Candidate Implicated in Concealed Contributions from Ohio Concern

PROBE FINANCING OF SOLDIER PUBLICATION

Secretary of Finance Director Questioned by Committee

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The absence of witnesses having halted its inquiry into implied charges that Governor Cox in 1915 received a concealed campaign contribution of $5,000 from the Dayton, Ohio, Metal Products company, the senate campaign investigating committee turned its attention today to the financing of the Stars and Stripes, a soldier publication.

Chairman Kenyon indicated that the committee would meet next on October 18 at St. Louis.

Mrs. T. M. Parks, assistant and secretary to W. D. Jamison, director of finance for the democratic national committee, was questioned as to the financing of the Stars and Stripes.

She told the committee by Joseph Heffernan, secretary-treasurer of the Stars and Stripes Publishing company, and said that she had undertaken to underwrite $48,000 for the publication. Of this sum, she said she furnished $10,000 and she obtained the remainder from friends.

"May I state," the witness said, "that the democratic national committee, nor any member of it as much as ever contributed a dollar to the paper or lent me a cent."

"I had an intense desire, like most other men and women, to do something for ex-soldiers. I tried to help."

Asked who were the friends who loaned her money, Mrs. Parks said: "I don't care to say. That is my personal business."

"I think this is persecution, directed towards my own personal business when there is no connection between the paper and the national committee, or the campaign financing."

"There have been innumerable implications against it. Republicans have come to me and said 'a threatening way that we would be put out of business unless we give it up.'"

"Mr. Richard Waldo for one," Mrs. Parks replied. "He said he represented himself and some other interests. He said we could never get any advertising from the Big Four advertising agencies."

"He wanted you to come out against the bonus plan?" asked Senator Reed, democrat of Missouri.

"He did," Mrs. Parks replied. "Our position always has been to print the opinion on these subjects of the boys themselves, as the letters come to us from them."

MILWAUKEE APPEAL FOR REDUCED GAS RATES DISMISSED

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 25.—The Wisconsin railroad commission on Saturday dismissed the application of the city of Milwaukee for a reduction of gas rates in that city. The commission found that while the company had been making an average earning during the past eight years of about nine percent on the valuation of the plant, that during the last six months, due to increased costs of operation the net earnings had dropped to 4.6 per cent.

The commission found that this latter earning was not excessive and therefore dismissed the complaint. The highest gas rate in Milwaukee is now 75 cents and the city was asking for a reduction to 50 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

BLAINE AND WILCOX

TWO years ago Senator Wilcox's political rawhide mutilated the not tender political epidermis of Governor Emanuel Philipp. In the recent primary he may have taken a little skin off Attorney General Blaine. Political gossip interests itself in speculation concerning a rumor that Mr. Blaine has joined with the governor in a plan whereby Senator Wilcox as a political entity is to be "spurious versenkt".

Doubtless Governor Philipp, who sacrificed his faction's chance for victory upon the altar of his hatred for Wilcox, will insist upon his pound of flesh, but we credit Mr. Blaine with the self restraint necessary to a straight look at the situation.

Blaine knows Wilcox lost to Philipp two years ago by but 440 votes, and that in the recent primary he himself nosed out Wilcox by less than 14,000 votes in a contest the latter would almost certainly have won but for a late arrival proclaimed by the governor as "the man to beat Wilcox". In spite of this handicap Wilcox demonstrated that he can command a personal following larger than any other Wisconsin republican with the exceptions of the two United States senators.

No matter what Mr. Blaine's reaction to Senator Wilcox's personal attack may be, he knows that Wilcox fathered a strong progressive reconstruction program in the senate, and that among the nearly 100,000 citizens who gave him their votes there must be included thousands of progressive republicans whose inclination to accept the primary decree and vote the ticket may easily be affected by resentment of retaliatory measures touching Wilcox.

Senator Wilcox is a republican, unusually able and tremendously vigorous. Hot talk following the primary has subsided. In all probability he is big enough to pocket his personal quarrels and stand on the firing line. But he is human as well as a republican, and he comes of a fighting breed.

Philipp is paid by his revenge. Blaine owes him nothing, nor does La Follette. Republicans who have eggs in the party basket may do well to let the governor go it alone and give Senator Wilcox a speaking part on the program. Any man who can poll 100,000 votes in a six-cornered race in Wisconsin can do the republican party a lot of good between now and the fateful first Tuesday after the first Monday.

STEALING HOOVER

MR. COX is quoted as having declared in a public address in California that if elected he would offer Herbert Hoover a place in his cabinet.

It was a good stroke of politics in California. Indeed, it was good politics the nation over, for Hoover is recognized as one of the great figures of his time, and enjoys in an especial way the confidence of women voters.

Perhaps Mr. Cox "stepped out" with an original inspiration. On the other hand, he may have been "tipped off". One recalls that at the outset Mr. Harding promised to name his cabinet in advance. Possibly Mr. Cox had reason to believe that his rival had slated Hoover for a portfolio, and decided to "beat him to it".

Anyway, Mr. Cox's Hoover boom raises an interesting inquiry as to what has become of Senator Harding's plan to name his cabinet in advance of his election. Perhaps he left it on his front porch.

Or possibly the idea met with opposition, or obstacles have arisen. It is conceivable that the senator may have concluded that disclosure of his proposed cabinet would not add to his popularity. Or maybe prospective members didn't care to count their chicks before they were hatched in the election. Again, men like Root and Hughes may have been advised against a course which might prove the first step in the direction of an elective cabinet. Statesmen whose political philosophy is largely built upon precedent are apt to regard new precedents as dangerous.

However, if Senator Harding still intends to announce his cabinet before election day, it would be proper for him to include Mr. Hoover. The latter is a declared republican, and Mr. Cox is attempting political grand larceny. Senator Harding is entitled to such cabinet timber as his party affords, and no doubt something like two million republicans would be glad to see their presidential candidate replevin his opponent's plunder.

YES, YES! GO ON!

HEAR Charles Evans Hughes, speaking on behalf of Senator Harding, republican candidate for the presidency of the United States:

"I believe there is no disposition on the part of foreign powers to oppose the qualifications or amendments we desire. And, under a republican administration, we shall be able to retain all that is good in the proposed covenant, while we shall adequately protect ourselves from what is ill advised and dangerous."

"Republican leaders," says the dispatch thus quoting Mr. Hughes, "are pleased" to hear him "thus line up with Harding".

So that is what Senator Harding meant! One thought so, although his language was cautious, almost covert.

No doubt Mr. Root has been able to assure Mr. Hughes that "there is no disposition on the part of foreign powers to oppose the qualifications or amendments we desire". The able Elihu undoubtedly secured this understanding while abroad. But that he got it without first having assured the "foreign powers" that "the qualifications and amendments we desire" will not destroy the essential machinery of the league of nations would be an absurd assumption. As "the bloke said to Susie", after its return to powder the republican party is going to hustle Uncle Sam into the league of nations "as quick as it d-n can". There'll be a new coat of paint on the ark of the covenant, that is all.

And since there are many reasons why our domestic affairs are likely to be better managed under republican administration, it is good to be assured by so responsible a citizen as Mr. Hughes that internationally the G. O. P. can see beyond the end of its nose.

A Houston, Texas, man was pronounced dead nine times and came back to life each time. He Malteased the undertakers.

This fall, for the first time, one may see rival candidates' pictures in the same parlor window.

A YEAR AGO TODAY

BY MARY MORRISON

Mrs. Cushman Lane looked around the table with a sigh of genuine satisfaction. It was just the sort of dinner she revels in—small, intimate, and carefully chosen. She glanced at Roderick Sears, the young explorer, whose name was on everybody's lips and whose story of being shipwrecked for a year on some unheard of island in the South Seas was filling columns daily in the newspapers.

Sears was talking somewhat in an undertone to Carol Terhune. Mrs. Lane wished she could hear what he was saying. Carol's hands were clasped before her on the table, and in the shadowy golden light of the candles they looked like beautifully molded marble, and just as motionless. Mrs. Lane raised her voice in a question:

"What were you doing a year ago today, Mr. Sears?" she asked.

The man came back to the present with a perceptible start. "Strange that you should ask that," he exclaimed, with his attractive smile. "I was just telling Miss Terhune what happened a year ago. Now that you have asked I shall, of course, tell you too"—and he gave Carol Terhune a rather quizzical glance.

There was silence in the big room. For some intangible reason every one had simultaneously stopped talking and paused to hear what the young explorer had to say, as if they felt a certain tenseness, rather a dramatic situation, in the air. From the open window came the soft murmur of the ocean on the beach and the fragrance of a nearby garden. Deft servants moved without sound. Carol Terhune's hands tightened and then withdrew into the shadow as Roderick Sears began.

"For two days we had been cooped up in our hut while the sort of downpour that only that part of the world knows anything about swept the island, lashing the foliage to shreds. We took turns looking through the one window of which the hut boasted at a steamer in distress, stuck fast on a coral reef. Poor devils! Our own experience was too fresh in our minds not to know what the men aboard must be feeling from minute to minute. Bowman was watching when he suddenly gave a sort of groan and turned away. When Smith and I got there, no boat was in sight. We knew what had happened.

At that moment, by some freak which holds away over that part of the country, the sun broke through, and in five minutes you would never have known there had been a storm—except for the wrecked vegetation lying around. We three—Bowman, Smith and I—rushed down to the beach to see what we could find. Beach combing is not a business matter in vogue up here—but, Lord! it was the one excitement down there. Then, too, we hoped against hope we might be able to help a stray survivor from the steamer.

"The wreckage began to strew the beach—here a chair, there a part of a table, a barrel and bits of unrecognizable odds and ends. When darkness came we each shouldered something and hit the trail back to the hut.

"Smith carried the barrel, so of course everything in it was his. We watched him unpack it with all the thrill of a Christmas stocking! Jove! What wasn't in that barrel! Then at the bottom was something wrapped up in paper—an old Sunday supplement of the New York 'Times.' Smith saw the picture and didn't even stop to look any further—'By cricky! Fellows!' he cried. 'If here isn't Ethel Barrymore! The name's soaked off, but I'd know her any place.'

"All the homesickness of the last few months was in his voice as he hugged the picture to his heart, murmuring, 'Oh, you beauty! You bit of Broadway! Next to a rescuing steamer I'd rather have found you than anything I know!' Poor old Smith! He picked a long nail out of the barrel and proceeded to hang Miss Barrymore on the wall over his shakedown.

"Bowman had picked up the remainder of the paper and was looking at it, not saying a word. He was so quiet, so intent, that finally Smith and I noticed him. I suppose men who have been cooped up on a desert island for months, waiting day after day for the rescuing steamer that never seems to come, are not quite normal. So when Bowman spoke, his voice hoarse and shaking, we didn't think he had gone mad. We just laughed at him."

Roderick Sears stopped speaking here and looked direct at Carol Terhune. Their eyes met for a moment, and not until hers had dropped again did he continue in response to Mrs. Lane's rather breathless—

"What did Bowman say, Mr. Sears?"

He said, 'When I get home I am going to find this girl and marry her if it takes every hour of my life and every cent I have in the world.'

Sears smiled as he finished and somehow the table full of people that had been hanging so breathlessly on his words felt that they had been cheated of a more dramatic finish—that they were victims of an anticlimax. A sigh passed around.

"Did he ever find her?" asked Mrs. Lane, as she gave the signal to rise.

"Yes, he found her," replied Sears—but in the pushing back of chairs and the noise of resumed conversation his answer was lost. That is, it was lost to all but Carol Terhune. Roderick Sears walked beside Carol into the drawing room and followed her out onto the terrace, where the moon lighted the garden and the water beyond, and made it a veritable fairyland.

"I suppose you felt rather out of it—with Mr. Smith, engrossed with Ethel Barrymore and Mr. Bowman with the Supplement lady." Carol's voice would have sounded detached to the unobservant, but underneath

LIBERTY MOTOR, MADE IN FIVE DAYS AND NIGHTS, BIGGEST WAR VICTORY

(A True Story of Science)
On May 29, 1917, two famous mechanical engineers, J. G. Vincent of Detroit, and E. J. Hall of Berkeley, Calif., walked into Room 201 of the New Willard Hotel in Washington, and looked the door. They had come at the request of the United States Government, for the purpose of designing a high-power airplane motor satisfactory to the American army abroad.

Mr. Vincent and Mr. Hall carried in with them drawings of all sorts of aviation motors in use at that time. They decided to combine the best features of these different motors and make a motor far better than any one of them. For five days and nights they worked. At the end of that time they came out with complete drawings for the Liberty Motor.

So thorough was their work that the drawings which they provided were changed but little thereafter. Six weeks later, on July 4th, the first of these motors was in an airplane and was actually flown.

On the day that the Armistice was signed, 15,131 12-cylinder Liberty Motors had been built and delivered. They had a total of 6,032,000 H. P.—six times the horse power of Niagara Falls.

Beyond question, this was America's biggest single war achievement, in the field of science and invention. Other great machines and other remarkable inventions have been made under the pressure of necessity, but never was necessity more truly or more quickly the "Mother of Invention" than in the creation of the Liberty Motor.

An airplane motor must be capable of running at a tremendous speed for long periods of time. At the same time it must have the greatest horse power with the least weight.

When the first 12-cylinder Liberty Motor passed a successful fifty-hour test, on August 25, 1917, it delivered from 301 to 320 H. P. Later, the motor was "stepped up" to 440 H. P. Yet it weighed only 880 pounds one horse power to every two pounds of metal.

Remember that an engine of 60 H. P. is a giant among automobile motors. Compare this with 440 and you will see what a tremendously powerful creature the Liberty Motor is.

its soft, full tones there was a little tremor that Roderick Sears heard.

"There were only two of us in that hut," he said—"Smith and I."

"But Bowman and his beautiful young lady?" queried Carol.

"I didn't care to tell Mrs. Cushman Lane the only real romance of my life—so I called myself Bowman. I was the madman who fell in love with the picture, just as I am the man who has fallen in love with the girl."

Inside the drawing-room some one was singing. The haunting notes of "The Barcarole of Spring" mingled with the soft crashing of the surf on the beach. The beauty of it and the nearness of the man as he leaned down to speak, made Carol catch her breath.

"Of course, Miss Terhune, the picture was of you." His voice was low as he spoke, and his face white and rather stern.

Carol Terhune was very beautiful as she looked at the man beside her. Her hand touched his for a moment—just the ghost of a contact.

"I think I am the happiest woman on earth," she whispered. If she had anything further to say, it was lost—drowned by the beating of Roderick Sears' heart against her own.

Tackling in Football

"A team that can tackle well is never beaten by a large score," says A. A. Stagg, veteran football general of the University of Chicago.

There are three main kinds of tackles:

1. Front Tackle, usually made by a lineman. Keep your balance, holding your weight low. Try to avoid the stiff arms. Drive in low with a shoulder to your man, and follow this up with a leg drive. Aim at his knees; clasp them tight in your arms with hands closed, lifting and throwing your weight against him.

2. Side Tackle, usually made in the open. Watch two points especially; slow up when about five yards from your man so that he cannot fool you by dodging or sidestepping. Always keep your head in front of him. If you get it behind he is likely to drag you along like a sack of corn.

3. Rear Tackle. It takes nerve. The commonest trouble is not getting close enough. Make a dive, with your head to either side of his feet.

Remember that a hard tackle is always safer than an easy one.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT PRESIDENTS?

THIS is a presidential year; on November 2 thirty million Americans at the ballot box will decide who is to be the executive head of their government in the next four years. On that day will come the denouement of the greatest political drama the world knows. It is a fascinating business, and its history is most interesting.

Do you know the history of the presidency of the United States? Do you know the procedure of the nomination and election of the president?

Not everybody does. Perhaps there are a few queer bits of presidential history that you don't recall. Just to shake up your memory a little, The Tribune and Leader-Press will print every day, from now until election time, five questions relating to the presidency, covering the time from Washington's first term to the present campaign. Each set of questions will be answered in this space on the day following their publication, and a new set asked.

The series will constitute a complete course of instruction in the history of the presidency of the United States and the procedure of electing the chief magistrate.

Here are the first five questions. See tomorrow's paper to find out if your answers are correct:

Who was the first president of the United States?
Upon what date was he first inaugurated?
What ex-president was again elected to the office?
Which presidents died in office?
Which president was inaugurated in two different cities?

JOHNSON PROBES REPORTS INVOLVING NEW YORK PLAYERS

Sufficient Evidence that 1919 Series Was Crooked, Declares Brigham

MEMBERS OF WHITE SOX TEAM NOT TO BE SUMMONED

Heydler Goes to Cleveland in Search of Evidence

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 25.—Indictments based on charges of conspiracy to defraud may be the result of the Cook county grand jury's investigation of alleged crookedness by the players in last fall's world's series, it was indicated today by Henry H. Brigham, foreman of the jury.

"There seems to be more than sufficient evidence to support such charges," Mr. Brigham declared.

In connection with Brigham's announcement that Arnold Rothstein, New York turfman, and chief owner of the Harve de Grace race track, had been subpoenaed, it was learned today that President B. B. Johnson of the American league, has been in New York two days, investigating reports involving New York men in the alleged plan to "fix" the 1919 world's series so Cincinnati would win and enable the gamblers on the "inside" to win large sums.

Resides Rothstein, subpoenas also will be issued, Brigham announced, for William Buras, former pitcher of the Chicago American and Cincinnati National teams, Abe Attell, former featherweight champion, and several well-known sportsmen.

Eight members of the White Sox team, whose shares in the world's series money were held up by President Charles A. Comiskey several months, probably will not be summoned, Brigham said, adding that the grand jury was "getting plenty of evidence elsewhere."

Among the leading witnesses expected to appear when the grand jury resumes its investigation next Tuesday are President Johnson and President Heydler of the National league. The latter was in Detroit yesterday, tracing reports of an alleged attempt to "fix" a recent game here between Chicago and Philadelphia National league teams. Heydler said he expected to go to Cleveland and Cincinnati in search of evidence and expected to arrive here Tuesday. Members of the grand jury, it was indicated, wish to question him about true reasons for the discharge last fall of "Home" Zimmerman and Hal Chase of the New York Yankees. Chase has been connected with various angles of the present investigation by grand jury witnesses, a public statement by "Buck" Herzon, Chicago Cubs' second baseman, naming Chase as the man who "tipped off" J. C. (Rube) Benton, pitcher for the Giants and other players, that the series had been "fixed" for the Cincinnati Reds to win.

According to one version of the alleged "fixing" of the series, as published in the Chicago Tribune today, Rothstein chased Abe Attell from his office when approached with the object of securing his backing after members of the White Sox team had been "fixed." The betting ring was formed without Rothstein's aid, according to the story. Attell and Hal Chase securing their backing elsewhere.

EIGHTEEN GIRLS AND BOYS READY FOR STATE SHOW

Good Sized Delegation of La Crosse Young People to Exhibit Livestock at Madison

Eighteen La Crosse young persons have been hard at work for months feeding, training and fitting their entries for the junior livestock exposition at Madison October 18-22 and are ready to help uphold La Crosse county's reputation at the show.

Our young people who will exhibit Guernsey, Holstein and Jersey calves and Duroc Jersey, Poland China, Berkshire, Chester White and Hampshire pigs at the show are Victor Wolf, John and Robert Vanderploeg, Ida and Harry Stetzig, Elmer Smith, George Richmond, Valentine Pralle, Raymond Forstlin, William Passo, Vance and Forrest Markle, Edward Lemke, Eunice Leeger, Lloyd Larson, Bernard Larson, Alfred Eggler and John Dengel.

The officers of the Wisconsin Livestock Breeders' association, under whose auspices the exposition will be held, report that more than 300 boys and girls have already entered exhibits and some of these exhibits will bring as many as eight and ten animals.

"Interest among the young people is very high," says A. W. Hopkins, secretary of the association. "The committee and judges are expecting some very high grade animals among the baby calves, dairy calves, pigs and lambs brought out by the youngsters. Reports from all over the state indicate that the boys are very carefully feeding, fattening and fitting their entries, and that each one has his heart set on some of the most coveted awards. There will be close to 600 animals in the show and the committee is expecting a large attendance of young people who do not show."

Plans are being made by the committee on entertainment to have something doing every minute of the time that the young folks are not showing their exhibits so that time will not hang heavy on their hands. Veteran stockmen will be on hand to encourage the entrants and it is planned that Coach T. E. Jones of the University of Wisconsin will have a committee on the job to keep the lads "fit" for the competition. Every effort is being made to give the young showmen and showwomen the most enjoyable and most beneficial week of the year.

"The central purpose of the enterprise is to exhibit Wisconsin boy and girl efficiency in livestock husbandry," says W. J. Houser, president of the organization. "It will be a show of the training, skill, judgment, industry, patience and perseverance of youngsters who have been given a chance to demonstrate their ability and the results of agricultural and animal husbandry training in modern civilization."

"The material for an enduring foundation for modern scientific agriculture is boys and girls with American ambition, highly developed efficiency and the all necessary agricultural spirit. They can be led into agriculture when they get a glimpse of its fascinations and mysteries and realize the dignity and importance of husbandry of the soil and domestic animals."

DEMOCRATS CANNOT FILL VACANT PLACE ON STATE TICKET

Impossible for Lieutenant Governor Candidate to Get Name on Ticket Says Ruling

TWO MEN MENTIONED AS POSSIBLE CANDIDATES

Way to Get on Ticket is to File as Independent

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 25.—That it will be impossible for a candidate for lieutenant governor to get his name on the democratic ballot at this time is the effect of an opinion rendered some time ago by the attorney general's office, but which came to light today with the fact that the democratic party would seek to fill the place on the democratic ballot. Not a candidate for lieutenant governor is on the democratic ballot. Not a sufficient number of names were presented before the primary to get the name on the ballot.

The question has since arisen as to whether there was not a vacancy on the ticket that could now be filled by a certification of a name by the democratic state central committee. In August, the attorney general's department ruled that a vacancy could arise only by the death of a candidate or a withdrawal of a candidate to run for office. The failure to file a sufficient number of names to get on the ballot, it is pointed out in the opinion, does not constitute a vacancy.

Two names have been mentioned as possible candidates for lieutenant governor on the democratic ticket, if it is possible to get on the ballot. Frederick S. Hunt, president of the Milwaukee Distillers' Association, and George Morison, prominent republican and a convert to the democratic ranks on the issue of the league of nations, have been mentioned. Unless the opinion of the attorney general's department is overturned, it will be impossible for any man to run on the democratic ticket for this office. Such a person can only file as a candidate for lieutenant governor on the independent ballot. Independent candidates for any office in the state will be required to file their petitions before next Saturday night—one week from today. It requires nearly 1,100 names for a candidate to run on the independent ballot in this state.

LOCAL DOCTOR AND WIFE ENJOY TRIP THROUGH THE EAST

Dr. and Mrs. A. T. Rasmussen have returned from a six weeks' tour of the eastern states and Canada. The main purpose of the trip was the annual meeting of the National Dental Association, which met in Boston, the week of August 22. This was the largest convention ever held by that association having more than 7,500 members. The doctor also spent some time in hospitals and institutions in the east, where work and research in his specialty is being carried on. Especially in Walter Reed hospital, Washington, are there still a goodly number of cases being treated for injuries and diseases of the face and jaws. In speaking of this phase of the army hospital, the doctor is very enthusiastic over the sincerity of the men in charge of this branch of the army hospital work and the efforts being made to restore these cases to the best possible condition before being discharged.

GOOD BUSINESS FOR BALANCE OF YEAR PREDICTED BY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE COMMITTEE DESPITE CLOUDS ON HORIZON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Good business for the rest of this year, despite disturbing factors in the commercial, industrial and agricultural outlook is predicted in a report today by the committee on statistics and standards of the chamber of commerce of the United States. The report describes buying this month as of liberal volume, but on a sane and sober basis of needs as contrasted to the speculative purchasing of previous months.

The committee says "that a cloud has appeared on the automobile horizon" which it adds "seems to pre-empt very definitely lessened production in the near future and, probably different and more economical methods of distribution."

Despite good crops the committee declares the farmers' horizon is not without its cloud, describing the car shortage evil as far-reaching with the result that the elevators are full of grain and unable to get cars. "Farmers with their wheat, march up the hill, like the King of France, to the next railroad town," the committee asserts, and then march down again because there is no place for their wheat. So they store it the best they can on the farm and often have no place to put it. And then if they have to meet obligations they sell their wheat for what they can get for it. And a constant lower market prevails."

Building construction, the committee reports, "has practically come to a standstill because of being tied hand and foot by the unreliability and uncertainty of labor, high prices, scarcity of materials and the almost impossibility of financing any construction."

U. S. IMPORT TRADE GROWING RAPIDLY EXPORTS ARE LESS

Imports Gaining at Greater Pace than Export Trade U. S. Report Shows

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—America's import trade is expanding at a more rapid pace than is its export trade. Figures made public today by the department of commerce show that imports for the first eight months of this calendar year exceeded those of the twelve months of 1919 by approximately $100,000,000. Imports in 1919 established a new high record.

On the other hand exports for the eight months period ending with August were $2,437,171,869, less than those in the twelve months of 1919, and were only $211,000,000 greater than the exports of the first eight months of last year. The total exports for the eight months was $5,483,254,121.

MADISON MAN CHARGED WITH FRAUD IS CAUGHT AFTER YEAR'S SEARCH

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 25.—Clarence Green, a former attorney charged with defrauding prominent business men of Madison out of upwards of $20,000 by fake mortgages, pleaded not guilty when arraigned in superior court Friday morning. His bail was fixed at $25,000, which he was unable to furnish. J. M. Clancy, Stoughton, will make an argument to the court asking for a reduction of the amount of bail.

Green left Madison about a year ago and his track came disclosures of a number of fake mortgages executed by him. A search had been conducted over the nation for his apprehension and he was caught near East St. Louis on Wednesday and was returned to Madison by authorities Thursday night.

THREATS AGAINST RICE LAKE MAN END IN BURNING OF BARN

RICE LAKE, Wis., Sept. 25.—The new barn of W. A. Demars, the finest in Barron county, was destroyed by fire early today together with two large silos and about eighty tons of hay. That the fire was of incendiary origin is evident from the fact that the farm water works was plugged. The loss is estimated at $10,000, only partly covered by insurance.

Mr. Demars is cashier of the First National bank and during the war was on the draft board. For the last few months he has been receiving anonymous letters threatening his life and stating that he was responsible for certain persons being sent to war. Bloodhounds from Mauston, Wis., are on the way to Rice Lake to take up the trail.

If you want to get rid of eczema, pimples, or other distressing skin eruption, you will accept no "substitute" for Resinol. Preparations similar in name or appearance are not "just the same as Resinol." Although a few unscrupulous dealers may offer them as or for Resinol, they are often crudely made, of little healing power, and some may even be dangerous to use. Buy in the original blue package. # DELCO USERS ARE GUESTS OF COLBY HOLD BIG PARADE

Seventy-five from La Crosse County Tour City Prior to Going to the Fair

Seventy-five Delco light plant users were Thursday afternoon guests of A. O. Colby, the local Delco agent, at the Interstate fair.

Prior to going to the fair grounds the "Delco Fans" met at the Standard Oil company headquarters at the southern end of the causeway where they entered parade formation.

With Delco banners and advertising matter adorning their cars, they toured the city. The parade, seven blocks in length, went south on Third to Division street, east to Fifth street, North to State street and east to the Interstate fair grounds.

At the fair they made their headquarters at the "Home of Delco Lights" on the grounds.

AUTOMOBILE BANDITS GET $800 IN RAID ON OSHKOSH BANK

OSHKOSH, Wis., Sept. 25.—The automobile used by auto bandits in raiding the Oshkosh Exchange bank Friday afternoon was found this morning parked in the vicinity of St. Mary's hospital, where John E. Glatz, the assistant cashier, shot in the face by one of the hold-up men, is in a serious condition. As the hospital is a short distance from the station of the Northwestern railroad, it is believed the bandits circled the city, after their get-away, and probably boarded a Northwestern train sometime during the night. The car is a large Buick machine, practically new, with dark green body and light wheels. The number on the license plate is 18738, which is the license number that belonged to a Ford car stolen some weeks ago from a Waukesha resident. The car is the property of an Appleton man who had his car stolen from him while visiting Green Bay last Sunday.

The wounded bank employee, Mr. Glatz, was shot when he touched the button that set off the burglar alarm. After the excitement of the robbery subsided, it was discovered that the men had got away with about $800 in bills, which they snatched from the banking counters in their hasty departure.

Oils, Steels and Other Issues Featured in Market Rebound
NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Stocks were inclined to retreat at the opening of today's session, but continued on a brisk demand for oils, steels and some of the specialties and utilities. Feature of the rebound included Mexican Petroleum, Shell Trading, Royal Dutch and Texas Company, Crucible, Vanadium, Sheffield and Lackawanna
Steels, Baldwin Locomotive, Anaconda
Copper, International Paper, Central Leather and Tobacco Products. Standard and low priced rails improved, especially Canadian Pacific, Delaware
Lackawanna and Western, Reading,
Chesapeake and Ohio, Wheeling and Lake Erie preferred, Southern Railway, Western Pacific and Chicago and Alton. The closing was steady. Sales approximated 300,000 shares. Liberty bonds continued to lead the bond market, making further material gains.
The irregular trend of prices at the outset of today's short session of the stock market was again attributed to uncertain trade conditions, as indicated by the country-wide price cutting movement. Oils and some of the rails made variable advances, but metals and their specialties as well as steels, coppers, leathers, textiles and shipping manifested further reactionary tendencies. Exchange on London and continental Europe was lower, notwithstanding further heavy gold imports.

INDIANS KEEP SOX FROM TAKING LEAD

White Sox Blanked by Pennant Leaders, 2 to 0; One and One-half Behind

RUTH RAPS HOMER IN EACH GAME OF DOUBLE HEADER

Yanks and Senators Split Double; Tigers Trim St. Louis

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 25.—Walter Mails, Cleveland's left handed pitcher, was too much for the Chicago White Sox yesterday and they lost their opportunity to take the lead in the American league championship in this series by losing to the Indians, 2 to 0. Chicago is now one and one-half games behind the leaders, and were they to win today's game, they would be one-half game behind Cleveland.

Mails had the White Sox batters badly puzzled and won his fifth consecutive victory since joining the local team. He allowed only three hits and struck out six men, the hits coming in the first and fourth innings. Jackson collected a single in the first with two men out. In the fourth, Eddie Collins and Felsch got one each.

The local southpaw was in danger only once. That was in the fifth inning, when by phenomenal pitching he extricated himself. After striking out Risberg, Mails lost control long enough to issue three of his five bases on balls, filling the socks. He then steadied himself and retired the side by fanning Weaver and Eddie Collins in succession. Score: Chicago, 0; Cleveland, 2.

Batteries: Faber and Schalk; Mails and O'Neill.

Yanks, 1-2; Senators, 3-1. NEW YORK.—Babe Ruth's two home runs yesterday bring his season total to 51, but failed to add the New York Americans in their almost hopeless chase after Cleveland and Chicago. The Yankees were only able to break even with Washington, losing the first game, 3 to 1, and taking the second 2 to 1.

Ruth's double in the ninth inning of the last game was his fourth hit of the game and he reached third on an error and scored the winning run on Pratt's single. Washington won the first game by bunting three hits and two errors in the first inning for two runs. In New York's half, Ruth batted out his fifth home run but Acosta was invaluable in the remaining innings. Score: Washington, 3; New York, 1.

Batteries: Acosta and Picinich; Mays and Hannab. Second game: Washington, 0; New York, 1. Batteries: Shaw and Gharrett; Collins, Thormahlen and Hannab.

Macks, 10; Boston, 9. BOSTON.—Philadelphia won from Boston 10 to 9 yesterday. The winning came in the ninth inning on successive doubles by Perkins and Duzan. Boston used several recruits. Score: Philadelphia, 10; Boston, 9.

EASTERN SCHOOLS TO STAGE OPENING GRID CLASHES TODAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The playing of Harvard, Pennsylvania, Syracuse, and West Virginia football teams in the followers of the football sport. While none of these leading exponents of the gridiron sport has an opponent considered dangerous enough to cause fear of defeat, in one or more cases the visiting team is expected to severely test the early season form of the home eleven.

Notice of Change in Gas Rates

By order of the Railroad Commission of Wisconsin the following gas rates become effective in La Crosse, with the billing on and after October 3, 1920.

	Gross	Net
First 5,000 Cubic Feet Per Month	$2.15	$2.05
Next 5,000 Cubic Feet Per Month	$2.00	$1.90
All Over 10,000 Cubic Feet Per Month	$1.90	$1.80

The difference between the gross and net rates shall constitute a discount of payment of bills within ten days from date of their delivery.

Minimum Monthly Charges (Net)

3 Light Meter	$ 1.00
5 Light Meter	1.00
10 Light Meter	2.00
20 Light Meter	3.50
30 Light Meter	5.00
45 Light Meter	7.00
60 Light Meter	8.00
100 Light Meter	14.00
200 Light Meter	20.00

The Railroad Commission of the State of Wisconsin, after a thorough study of the operating statements of the La Crosse Gas Utility, has decided that the above rates are just and should be charged by our company. In granting these rates the Commission has taken into consideration the tremendous increase in the cost of raw materials used in the manufacture of gas, such as coal, oil and other supplies, also increased cost of materials used in maintaining and extending its distribution system, such as pipe, fittings, lead joints, etc.

It is our desire to render first class service at all times and improve on it in every way possible. In order to accomplish this we ask the co-operation of our consumers.

In future talks there will appear data on the increased costs of materials mentioned above.
